DINEEN BEAT HAYES.

In Marathon Run at Burlington in Three Hours and Half a Minute

Burlington, July 6.—The great Marathon race of 26 miles and 385 yards at Centennial field yesterday afternoon between Johnny Hayes, who won the Olympic Marathon at London, England, a year ago, Pat Dineen, the champion six day go-as-you-please runner and champion Marathoner of New England, Black Hawk, the great Indian runner, and Ted Crook, who beat Dorando and other noted runners recently at the Polo Grounds, New York, was witnessed by a crowd of 3,000 enthusiastic people.

Much to the surprise of the experts and crowd, old Pat Dineen defeated Hayes by over three quarters mile laps and finished strong, carrying an American flag in each hand. He received the applause from the crowd, which immediately surged across the track and field. His time was three hours and one-half minutes. By mutual agreement, Hayes, Crook and Black Hawk only finished their respective laps after Pat Dineen had crossed the finish line a winner. This was satisfactory to the crowd as there was such great distances between the runners that the end could not have resulted differently had each man finished the full Marathon distance.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Waist sale at Vaughan's. See advertisement.

Strong Tea.

The Abyssinian makes a tea from the leaves of a certain plant which has such stimulating qualities that to chew a single leaf will produce all the effects of a strong cup of tea.

The Butterfly.

The butterfly, like the bat, invariably goes to sleep head downward, its eyes looking straight down the stem of the grass on which it rests. It folds its wings to the utmost and thus wraps its body from the cold.

Too High to Run.

It is impossible to run at an altitude of 17,000 feet above the sea.

Lambeth Palace.

Lambeth palace, London, has been the home of the prelates of Canterbury for over seven centuries. This palace can show specimens of almost every style of architecture which has prevailed since 1190.

The Mustache in Service.

To servants the greatest form of indignity is to have the mustache shaved off.

Mexican Funerals.

The Mexicans have a queer way of burying the dead. The corpse is tightly wrapped in century plant matting and placed in a coffin lined for about a shilling. One or two natives, as the case may be, place the coffin on their heads and go at a trot to the grave, where the body is interred, and the coffin is then returned.

Living in Tombs.

Thousands of Egyptians live in old tombs, eating, sleeping, weeping, loving, laughing, dancing, singing, doing all their deeds of daily life and household work among the mummies and sarcophagi.

Man's Byproducts.

There is enough hydrogen gas in a man, says the Medical Index Lancet, to carry him up to the clouds. He contains enough fat to make seventy-five candles and a large cake of soap and enough phosphorus to make 8,004 boxes of matches. His remaining constituents will yield, if utilized, six cruets of salt, a bowl of sugar and ten gallons of water.

A Curious Fish.

A curious fish found off the Mauritius and Japan is the mottled fish, about six inches in length, which lures its prey within reach of its jaws by means of a luminous disk on each side of the lower jaw.

Tortoise Shell.

What is called tortoise shell is not the bony covering or shield of the turtle, but only the scales which cover it. These are thinned in number, eight of them flat and five a little curved. A large turtle affords about eight pounds of them, the plates varying from a quarter of an inch to an inch in thickness.

Air in Caves.

Certain caves have been reported as maintaining a uniform temperature, summer and winter, of 64 degrees F. They may be said to breathe twice a year—inhaling during the winter and exhaling during the summer.

District of Columbia.

The District of Columbia comprises an area of 68,245 square miles. The government consists of two civilian commissioners appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate and one army engineer officer, detailed by the secretary of war, the three constituting the board of commissioners for three years.

In Place of Flowers.

Flowers are never used for decorating in Tuscany, but at Christmas and Easter all the walls of the cathedrals are decked with wonderful damask of almost priceless value.
